Roosevelt To Avoid Making Any Change In U. S. Debt Policy

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)
LONDON, June 14.—Britain's payment toward the $75,950,000 debt installment due the United States tomorrow will be only slightly more than 1,000,000 pounds (approximately $4,100,000), it was understood today.

WASHINGTON, June 14.—President Roosevelt today will announce that he will "receive" the partial payment offers of Great Britain and Italy and other of the debtor nations which wish to make such payment of $144,000,000 due this government tomorrow.

By announcing that he will "receive" rather than accept the partial payment, the president believes that he will avoid committing the United States to any change in its debt policy.

Actual acceptance of the partial payment will be left up to congress, but the administration hopes the matter will not be taken up in the legislative body until the next session in January.

Reply is Presented.
The president's reply to the British partial payment offer was handed to an official of the British embassy at the state department early this morning. The text of the reply as well as the British offer will be (Continued On Page Two)

Banking Reform Measure Passes

Only Awaits President's Signature To Become Law

EFFECT WILL BE MOST FAR-REACHING

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 14.—The Glass-Steagall bank bill, carrying the most drastic banking reforms voted by Congress since the federal reserve system was established 20 years ago was before President Roosevelt for signature today.

The long and bitter fight over the measure was brought to a close when threats of filibuster melted away to the amazement of backers of the bill and the Senate-House compromise was approved.

Widespread Effect
Complete reform of the far-flung American banking system, with the possibility of a unified system eventually replacing the historic dual federal and state systems, will flow from the measure, congressional banking leaders said.

The effect of the measure on the entire system was declared by experts to be even more important than the establishment for the first time of a nation-wide system of depositors' insurance.

Both Senator Glass (D) of Virginia and Rep. Luce (R) of Massachusetts, members of the conference committees, declared a unified control of banking now is possible.

Attempt Of European Nations To Cut War Debts Prolongs Congress Session

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 14.—Efforts of European debtor nations to force a ten per cent settlement of tomorrow's debt installments to the United States, totalling $144,000,000, loomed today as the largest obstacle in the way of adjourning congress.

With all except two measures on the administration's vast legislative program finally enacted, the senate played a waiting game with the British parliament and the European delegates to the World Economic Conference.

The two remaining measures were the Independent Offices Appropriation Bill, containing bitterly disputed provisions for veterans relief; and the fourth Deficiency bill, swelled by the senate to a total of $3,611,400,000. Both were in conference.

GEOLOGICAL MUSEUM, LONDON, June 14.—Studiously avoiding all mention of the controversial foreign debts, Secretary of State Hull unfolded America's economic policies before the world economic conference this afternoon with a warning that any nation responsible for its failure "will merit the execration of mankind."

The debts are not included on the agenda of the conference. But Prime Minister J. Ramsay MacDonald injected them into the deliberations in his opening speech and other European speakers who followed him did likewise in an apparent effort to manoeuvre the United States into discussion of the issue here.

Throughout his trenchant address, Hull displayed his determination not to be drawn into controversy. He made no proposals of a startling nature, such as it had been rumored he would do with regard (Continued On Page Two)

CHAMBERLAIN ECHOES MACDONALD'S PLEA

Asks Settlement Of Debt Problems

Declares No World Adjustment Possible Without Debt Program

RETURN TO GOLD BASIS IS SOUGHT

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent
LONDON, June 14.—Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald's demand for settlement of the debt problem, which served to derail the World Economic Conference from its chartered course on the opening day, was re-echoed this afternoon by Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer.
"Final settlement of reparations and war debts is not within the scope of this conference," Chamberlain told the delegates. "But their final settlement is necessary if there is to be recovery elsewhere."
Chamberlain's speech was listened to with keen interest, as he has been delegated by his government to expound the latest Anglo-American debt settlement, believed to be on the Lausanne "dime-on-the-dollar" basis, before the house of commons tonight.

U. S. Delegates Absent
If he intended his speech for the edification of American delegates, Chamberlain must have been disappointed. Secretary of State Cordell Hull and James M. Cox retired from the conference hall while the weary work of translating a previous speech by Chancellor Engelbert Dollfus of Austria was in progress. The principal air of the conference, he said, should be recovery of world prices.
Chamberlain advocated a return to some international standard of currency, adding that the gold standard was "most generally accepted as best."
The question of a general return of gold, he said, was simply a matter of time. The British delegation, according to the chancellor, believes that international return to gold is dependent upon the following factors:

- 1.—A rise in the general level of wholesale prices.
- 2.—Adjustment of factors which caused a breakdown in the gold standard, such as reparations, foreign debts and exchange restrictions.
- 3.—Administration of the gold standard in such a manner as to prevent wide fluctuation in the price of gold.

HULL PRESENTS U. S. ATTITUDE TO CONFERENCE

to tariffs, but lunged out vigorously at "selfish nationalism."

"If, which God forbids," he said, "any nation should obstruct and wreck this great conference with the short-sighted notion that some of its favorite interests might temporarily profit while thus indefinitely delaying aid for the distressed in every country, that nation will merit the execration of mankind."

Hull Declares U. S. Attitude.
LONDON, June 14.—The United States today shot a stinging blow at the nationalistic tendencies which already have threatened the success of the world economic conference at London.

In his opening address before the greatest international gathering in history, Secretary of State Hull declared any nation that obstructs or wrecks the conference with selfish interests "will merit the execration of mankind."

Secretary Hull made no reference to debts nor the injection of that controversial issue into the conference by Britain and Italy.

He proposed immediate adherence by all nations of the world represented at the conference to the American sponsored tariff truce to which the leading nations of the world already have adhered.

He also urged temporary stabilization of currency, removal of exchange restrictions, abandonment of unfair trade practices, and a "gradual and careful readjustment of the excesses of tariffs and other trade barriers to a moderate level."

Declaring that if the conference is to succeed "narrow and self-defeating selfishness must be banished from every human heart within this council chamber," Hull added:

"If, which God forbid, any nation should obstruct and wreck this great conference with the short sighted notion that some of its favorite interests might temporarily profit while thus indefinitely delaying aid for the distressed in every country, that nation will merit the execration of mankind."

Faith in Conference.
Asserting he had faith in the complete ability of the conference to promulgate a program which will aid the way of restoration of world prosperity, Hull said:

"We would be false to the trust reposed in us by the anxious audience of humanity everywhere if this great tribunal were complacently to adjourn with the humiliating implication that we are incapable of providing new policies and that the same nation—destroying, world wrecking economic policies that have been in operation since the war must continue."

The secretary's emphatic warning to the conference to abandon selfish interest and cooperate was inserted in the lead of his speech at the last moment. It followed the injection of the debt issue into the proceedings by Great Britain and Italy and the efforts made to block the American delegation from attaining chairmanship of the important monetary and economic committee.

In urging the necessity for some form of stabilization of currency Hull said:

Stabilization Need
"In the monetary field suitable measures must be taken to provide for an immediate policy which will give the greatest possible measure of stability for the period during which the ground work will be laid for during reform. Simultaneously all the nations must stimulate the natural sources of employment, restart the wheels of industry and commerce and so build up consumer power that the rise of the price level will of necessity follow."

"Then the conference must face the vexing problem of a permanent international monetary standard and lay down the proper function of the metals, gold and silver, in the operation of such a standard."

Hull declared further:
"Has not the time come for governments to cease erecting trade barriers with their excesses, rank discriminations, and hate breeding reprisals and retaliations?"

"Honest interdependence now compels the admission that nations are substantially interrelated and interdependent in an economic sense with the result that international cooperation today is a fundamental necessity. The opposing policy of self-containment has demonstrated its inability either to avoid or arrest or cure the most depressing depression in all the annals of business."

"This conference should proclaim that economic nationalism as imposed upon the various nations is a discredited policy; and from those who insist that the world should continue in this discredited policy the conference must turn aside. Many measures indispensable to full and satisfactory business relations are beyond the powers of individual states. The extreme difficulty is manifest of one nation by itself undertaking largely to reduce its tariffs or to remove exchange restrictions or to stabilize its exchange and currency or to restore the international financial credit and trade structure."

Must Liberalize Policies
"It is equally true that mutually profitable markets could only be obtained by the liberalization of the commercial policies of other countries and this is only possible by the simultaneous action of all governments stabilizing exchange and currencies and reducing to a reasonable extent trade barriers and other impediments to commerce between nations."

"This conference must formulate plans to deal effectively with these difficulties. Satisfactory conditions of peace and prosperity and human progress itself require the maintenance of a growing international commerce. The conference must make clear whether civilized countries can ignore this economic fact and shirk the duties which such fact imposes."

"Trade between nations does not mean the displacement of established home production and trade of one country by that of another. International trade is chiefly barter of a mutually profitable exchange of surpluses by different countries either directly or in a triangular manner. It specially contemplates too that an interprising nation goes out into the world and locates and develops new markets for the goods it effectively produces. The gradual and careful readjustment of the excesses of tariff and other trade barriers to a moderate level would not contemplate either unreasonable or excessive competitive imports against efficient domestic industry operated under normal conditions on the one hand nor monopolistic price advantages at home on the other. This policy, if practiced generally among the nations, would insure healthier and more prosperous conditions in all industries at all efficient in every country. This broad program while disclaiming extreme economic internationalism on the one hand would challenge exclude economic nationalism on the other and launch every nation upon a sane practical middle course. It would reciprocally supplement efficient home markets with capacious foreign markets. In no others half so feasible can the present thirty millions of unemployed wage earners be returned to work nor bankrupt agriculture be restored to solvency nor famished industry be brought back to normal.

"The world cannot longer go on as it is going at present. A successful meeting of this conference in my judgment is the key to widespread business recovery. While it is true that at the present time there does not exist a sufficiently informed public opinion in support of a necessary program of international economic cooperation. It is my firm conviction that the losses and sufferings of peoples in every country have been so great that they can soon be aroused into aggressive support of such a program."

"The nations which sent us here are interested above all else in peace and prosperity and the prerequisite of either is a wise readjustment of economic policies. Economic conflicts, with some exceptions, are the most serious and the most permanent of all the dangers which are likely to threaten the peace of the world. Let this great conference, therefore, proceed to the herculean task of promoting and establishing economic peace which is the fundamental basis of all peace."

ROOSEVELT WILL RECEIVE PARTIAL DEBT PAYMENT

made public simultaneously here and in London this afternoon. At the same time the president will make a statement on the debt situation to coincide with the statement to be made in the house of commons by Neville Chamberlain, British chancellor of the exchequer.

Although the British offer is reported to be in the neighborhood of ten per cent, the fact that it will be "received" rather than accepted by this government, will, in the belief of officials here, avoid any recognition that a ten per cent payment would pave the way for a "dime on the dollar" final settlement of Europe's debts to the United States.

Problem For Roosevelt.
WASHINGTON, June 14.—Europe today had forced President Roosevelt to the wall on the international debt situation.

Faced with a virtual ultimatum from a group of the debtor nations led by Great Britain that the United States could accept a partial payment or get nothing on the $144,000,000 due this government tomorrow, the president had to decide whether he would take what he could get or let the European nations default in a body.

Great Britain, Italy and Rumania led the drive for partial payment. The British offer, delivered at the state department late yesterday and reported to be about $6,000,000 or $10,000,000 instead of the $75,000,000 due, called for a reply. President Roosevelt will make it during the day.

The Italian proposal on its $13,500,000 payment did not call for a formal reply. It took the form of a notice that Italy intended to pay what it felt able to pay and that the United States could take it or leave it.

Rumania notified the state department it would follow Britain's lead in connection with the $1,000,000 it is due to pay.

Belgium sent notice it would not be able to make any payment. France said nothing, having already intimated its intention to default on its $40,000,000 payment.

It was France and her satellites who in the opinion of officials here paved the way for the partial payment group. Bulwarked by the knowledge that France and Belgium intended to default in any event, the British felt they were able to dictate their own terms, officials said.

Opinions Differ On London Speech By Cordell Hull

Varied Reactions Is Heard Among Delegates To The Speech By American Secretary

DISAPPOINTMENT IS MANIFESTED

(International News Service)
LONDON, June 14.—Varied reaction among delegates to the World Economic Conference followed the speech delivered to the parley by the American secretary of state, Cordell Hull, setting forth American views and aims on the issues involved.

There was a wide divergence between the opinions expressed privately and publicly. While all delegates in public praised the lofty ideals and sentiments voiced by the head of the American delegation, privately expressed comments attacked a lack of concreteness and an absence of specific propositions.

French Shrug
The French shrugged off the speech with the declaration its import was "all in the future."

The British noted particularly that Hull proposed a gradual horizontal lowering of the international tariff walls, in contrast to the bilateral agreements stressed by Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain as the proper method of tariff adjustment. Britain has none of these agreements.

It was evident there was some disappointment in the general character of the speech.

BROAD IMPROVEMENT

AMONG the most encouraging signs that the business upturn is on a solid foundation is the fact that the usual summer slump has not set in. Despite the season when trade ordinarily lags, reports show a continued upswing in activities. May wholesale buying in some instances being 50 per cent greater than it was in May of last year.

An important factor in this situation is to be found in rising prices. Merchants laying in supplies before still higher levels are reached. Reports from the big wholesale centers reflect this condition almost without exception.

In recent years merchants had fallen into the habit of buying from hand to mouth. Only small orders were placed because of fear that prices would take a further tumble and the advantage of this decline would be missed. This situation now is being reversed. Buyers are taking large lots. Stocks in most establishments are low and there is a rush to replenish these. In some centers, orders for late summer and fall goods are being placed.

Business leaders in the Southwest are especially enthusiastic in analyzing the situation. Not only is buying being done now on a large scale, but increased purchasing power for the near future is assured in the rising prices for agricultural products. After the wheat crop is harvested and marketed by the growers, the latter will have additional money for purchases.

The construction industry is picking up along with other lines. The demand for lumber is increasing, and building materials of various kinds are beginning to move in growing volume.

On the whole, the business outlook appears to be more encouraging than it has been at any time since the depression set in. All reports indicate there is a pick up all along the line.

THE RUBBISH PEDDLERS

John Maynard Keynes, one of the foremost economists of the world, said that "in the United States it is almost inconceivable what rubbish a public man has to utter today."

The reason for that is that most public men, particularly those in high office, minimize the intelligence of the public. They have seen themselves and others swept into office on platforms consisting mainly or solely of ancient platitudes, sonorous evasions, polysyllabic misrepresentations and appeals to local prejudices. They have then acted accordingly.

The public is largely to blame for this condition, not because of lack of intelligence, not because of a laissez faire attitude toward the business of government. If the average well-informed citizen paid as little critical attention to his own business as he does to the public business he would be bankrupt.

There are grounds for hope that present conditions have awakened the voter. They have tended to make us think—to look at government and government officers with new eyes. If they have done that, the depression has been worth its cost. And the result will be that a good many officeholders, whose stock in trade is bunk, will be looking for new jobs in the near future.

TAXES IN TRIPLICATE

Owners of automobiles in New York City are the most unfortunate of motorists, for the municipal government, deep in the red, purposes to put upon them a local tax equal in amount to that which they pay to the state for registration. But this means Mayor O'Brien estimates that $15,000,000 will be collected.

That isn't all. Motorists from other parts also will be taxed to keep the government of New York city functioning. All car owners who are not licensed by the municipality will pay a toll of 10 cents when they cross Harlem river bridges and 25 cents when crossing the East river. Besides, there will be a tax of 5 cents on a taxicab ride. From these sources the government expects to collect about $6,500,000.

Here is triplication of taxation. For the federal government collects a manufacturers' tax on automobiles, also taxes on gasoline and oil. Then the state government steps in and makes a heavy tax for registration and on gasoline. And on top of all these taxes the municipal government piles another tax of large proportions.

In this, as in other matters of taxation, the law or principle of diminishing returns is certain to operate. There is a limit to the ability of automobile owners to pay.—The Buffalo Evening News.

TOO MUCH FOR THE IMAGINATION

The imagination has almost unlimited powers, but there are some things with which it can cope. One of these is a fact brought out in connection with the theft of six radium needles from the office of a Philadelphia specialist. It was pointed out that the thief can not destroy the needles and that the emanations of the radium will continue for 3,000 years.

Try to picture a tiny bit of substance that can defy man's destructive instinct for that long and at the same time give out deadly rays with undiminished force for thousands of years and the imagination will find its match.

We speak with familiarity of nature's powers and believe that we know something about energy, but with all the discoveries that have been made we have merely scratched the surface.

ENCOURAGING GROWTH IN POSTAL RECEIPTS

It has long been the custom to accept the postal receipts as a barometer of business; and if that view be adopted now we may find reason for encouragement regarding the economic outlook. A report of the Postoffice Department for the month of May in fifty cities shows an increase of more than three per cent over the same month of last year. The figures are not large enough to cause actual elation, but the improvement is none the less gratifying because it means that we are moving in the right direction. It helps to confirm the general business reports which have been coming from different parts of the country.

It is hardly reasonable to expect a marked upturn in business during the summer months, but unless all signs fall we have every reason to look forward hopefully to the last part of the year. We have unquestionably gone through a severe depression, but there is less reason for pessimism now than at any time since the beginning of our economic troubles.

Senators are old, and age is conservative, but alas, an old motor expends most of its energy knocking itself.

SILENCE
There is such silence in the garden. "Not much talk—a great, sweet silence. Hardly a leaf quivers on a tree. A small moon moves quietly through the heavens. Down here, not a bird makes any noise. A spark slips silently from a chimney. Far over there a train whistles shrilly and then the silence is deeper than before. A bat goes by, a night swallow slips through the warm, dark air, and their swift motions increase the silence too. A match flares in the darkness and a man's face glows against the shadows. The match falls and there is the stillness once more.

There are people in this world who cannot endure silence. It "gets on their nerves," and they must chatter it with comment, with talk. They do not feel that they are truly alive unless they are making a noise. They think that silence is a form of dying. . . . If they are with a friend and he is silent, his quiet annoys them. They read it as boredom, as offense, as estrangement and suffer until words are spoken again. There are lovers, even, for whom silence is a reproach and who cannot live in silence: husbands and wives, too, whose love must be articulated. They know not what Shakespeare meant when he wrote: "I'll speak to thee in silence." Nor Ben Jonson when he said, "True gladness doth not always speak; joy bred and born but in the tongues is weak. Nor Longfellow, asking, 'What shall I say to you? What can I say better than silence is?' "Nor even that canny wisdom that's in the Bible to the effect that "even a fool, when he holdeth his peace, is counted wise."

I'd not be arguing that silence is the only food for men. Being something of a chatterer with a tongue that moves easily enough for ordinary purposes, I'd sound foolish, indeed, maintaining that man should never talk. But there's refreshment and renewal in silence that cannot rise in the fountains of speech. In quiet, in silence, a man is more himself than he is gathered into a crowd. Then he is what he wants to be, what he knows in his heart that he ought to be. Then he grows to his predestined stature and sees the standard of what he must become. . . . And if a man lives without ever seeking a silence for himself, anywhere, then he can hardly be said to be living at all, and he will not learn how to speak truly to any other man.

TAKE IT ON THE CHIN!

It is a good thing that once in a while you read something that jolts you.

Possibly you hear something that makes you sit up and take notice and the stiff blow brings to you a greater sense of your own weaknesses.

You have pursued a personally pleasant course for so long that you do not comprehend how far you have gone in establishing a bad habit.

It is easy to form habit and hard to break it. If you want to test your self-will—if you are foolishly confident of being your own master—try breaking away from some of the things that afford you the greatest satisfaction.

You may have an alarming self-awakening, especially if you have been easy in self-discipline, when you find the strange hold of certain habits.

When this fact is sufficiently emphasized, you should need no further arguments on how necessary it is for you to start right and keep to the course.

Desireful methods never got anyone anywhere when you have no particular harm, but you'd admit, won't you, that you won't go far on the way to the top on your scheme of living?

Brace up and not only take it on the chin but change your ways. Both will be beneficial to you.

FLAG DAY

Flag, inspire us as of old. Strengthen us and make us bold. Hearken us to tasks to bear Till friendship everywhere. Hold us fast till bickering cease And all nations dwell in peace.

Grand Old Glory, lead us on Till from earth is hatred gone; Urge us forward to the day Men shall find the better way, And all children of the earth Shall be grateful for their birth.

Flag of freedom, whisper down To the workers of the town, To the farmers of the land Words which they can understand; Tell them if they falter not, Earth shall be a happier spot.

Shining red and white and blue, Faith and hope in us renew! Though the skies are now o'ercast, Hold us in this service fast. Bid us constant to remain Until world-wide peace shall reign. (Copyright, 1933, Edgar A. Guest)

A tourist was enjoying the wonders of California as pointed out by a native.

"What a beautiful grapefruit!" he exclaimed as they passed through a grove of citrus trees.

"Oh, those lemons are a bit small owing to a comparatively bad season," explained the Californian.

"And what are those enormous blossoms?" asked the tourist.

"Just a patch of dandelions." Presently they reached the Sacramento river.

"Ah," said the tourist, grasping the idea, "somebody's radiator is leaking!"

Note also the action of that church out in Chicago, which now prohibits the bride and the fall guy from kiss-

"Casey at the Bat" is an epic known the country over, through the efforts of that veteran DeWolf Hopper but, George White, as assemblyman-to-be of northern New Jersey, tells a story of a baseball game with a different finish but equally as vital and full of interest.

The boys in the little Jersey village had challenged the lads of a nearby burg to a game of ball. They had chased the cows out of the largest pasture in the vicinity and when the visitors arrived and preliminaries were settled the game began. There was as much enthusiasm as in larger communities and runs ran pretty even until the seventh inning when the game was "called," owing to a slide which one of the visiting team made to—"what he thought" was third base.

What is YOUR Opinion about prices?

MANY authorities doubt if this generation will ever again see prices as low as they are to-day.

This applies particularly to electric refrigeration—and especially to Kelvinator, because Kelvinator's present low prices are for standard, full-quality merchandise and not for special, "cheap" models built down to a price.

Commodity prices are advancing. Copper, zinc, lead, tin, rubber and other materials used by Kelvinator, have increased from 22 to 63% since Kelvinator announced the present low prices.

Washington says that all wages must be raised. Buying power must be restored. The Industrial Emergency Bill gives the President power to carry out this program. He has the authority to raise prices by currency inflation.

All of this can mean but one thing—a further rise in commodity prices.

That Kelvinator prices have not already been increased, is due only to rigid economies at the factory and to a tremendous volume of business.

April was the biggest month in Kelvinator history when 30,116 units were shipped. And for May—a new high, all-time record of 43,357 units was established.

But volume and economy no longer suffice to meet the situation. And materials costs continue to advance. Kelvinator is buying materials on a "price at time of delivery" basis.

In view of these facts, what is YOUR opinion about Kelvinator prices?

One point of policy is absolutely established—has been for 19 years—Kelvinator will not cheapen the product to meet a low price.

Massachusetts Favors Repeal

(International News Service)
BOSTON, June 14.—Fifteen years ago Massachusetts was the eleventh state in the union to ratify the 18th amendment, and by a queer twist of fate, today became the eleventh state to ratify the repeal of prohibition.

By a clear margin of four to one, the Bay State swept aside the dyes and elected 45 delegates from the fifteen congressional districts, assuring that the state constitutional convention would unanimously record the state in favor of the 21st amendment to the constitution.

Barbara Hutton Did Not Want To Marry American

Wealthy Heiress Says
"American Men Too Much
For Business," And
No Play

Expects To Be Extremely Happy As Princess Mdivani, Approved By Father

By EDWARD HUNTER
International News Service Staff
Correspondent

PARIS, June 14.—Barbara Hutton, heiress to the Woolworth millions, is marrying Prince Alexis Mdivani because she is tired of business men, she said in an exclusive interview Tuesday.

"I like the life Alexis leads," said the dashing Barbara, explaining her love for the "secretary of the Georgian legation."

"All the American men I know are business men or want to be business men."

"Once they marry a girl, they wrap themselves up in business again."

Miss Hutton believes she will escape this sort of wifely martyrdom by marrying the prince. "Alexis is amusing, smart and interesting," she declared.

"It won't be like marrying a foreigner at all, since he is a real cosmopolitan. It is mean of people to say that Alexis followed my millions around the world."

Miss Hutton declared she has known the prince for years but added that when they first met "I was just a kid." Her father, Franklyn Hutton, is fond of the prince, she said.

Approved By Father.
"When I approved my engagement from Siam, my father replied from Miami by telephone," Miss Hutton continued.

"He just asked if it was definite and then replied: 'Okay, if you are happy.' He only asked me to wait until he could attend the marriage, which we arranged here in Paris."

"People should not cast aspersions on Alexis' title. But that's just gossip. It will be fun being a princess. He has a right to be proud of his family, which has had its title for generations."

Municipal Course Rates Are Lowered

Establish Price Of Twenty-Five Cents For Eighteen Holes
Effective Today

Because of the fact that many former patrons of the Municipal Course have been unable to play much golf this year due to economic conditions, the advisory committee has further reduced the rates at the course to twenty-five cents for eighteen holes, effective today.

Members of the committee, in making the announcement, pointed out the fact that the Municipal Course was created for the purpose of providing golf at a reasonable price for the working people of the city. This has been their aim during the past few years. Rates were reduced at the start of the season because of the fact that a great many people are still affected by economic conditions. They state that wages have been lowered with those who are employed, and regular patrons of the course felt that the prices charged last year would still not permit them to enjoy the benefits of the course.

This will not affect the rates established for Mondays, the price still remaining at ten cents for nine holes. On all other days, a minimum rate of twenty-five cents will be charged, which will entitle the player to eighteen holes of golf, the committee states.

Manager William G. Fleming says that the course is now in excellent playing condition, the rough having been mowed close last week. The fairways and greens are now in the best of shape, also, he says, and golfers will find playing conditions the best they have been since the course was opened.

Protests Presented At Hearing
Before Public Service Commission

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, June 14.—Protests entered by counsel for the Pittsburgh Street Railway Company and the Pittsburgh Motor Coach Company against the application of the Harmony Short Line Motor Transportation Company for carrying groups and parties between Pittsburgh and other points in the counties of Allegheny, Beaver, Butler and Lawrence were heard here today by Public Service Commission Examiner Samuel G. Miller.

Claims of the protesters are that the Harmony Line already is authorized to carry passengers in these sections and does not need further rights. They allege that the application may be interpreted to give the Harmony Line permission to operate buses carrying groups and parties of persons throughout the state from the four counties mentioned.

Testimony of the applicants revealed that they must, in some instances, discharge private parties a half mile away from their destinations because they are not allowed to carry passengers any nearer routes of the Pittsburgh bus and car lines.

The present application also asks that the Harmony Line be permitted to carry special parties on any of its certificated routes between the points named in the application.

New Castle, Ellwood City, Beaver Falls, New Brighton, Butler and a score of other cities and boroughs are named as originating points for parties that will be carried should the routes over which the Harmony system operates include their own bus lines and also the routes of the now defunct Pittsburgh, Harmony, Butler and New Castle and Pittsburgh, Mars and Butler electric lines.

West Leechburg Councilmen Face Serious Charges

Two Councilmen Use Municipal Property To Own
Advantage

(International News Service)
VANDERGRIFT, Pa., June 14.—Arrest threatened two West Leechburg councilmen today following alleged discovery of missing municipal property in their possession.

Thomas Modir faces arrest on charges of taking 300 feet of wire cable and using it to enclose a pasture he owned. Unless Councilman William Shirley pays a bill of $80 for "rental" and damage of a borough tractor he is alleged to have operated to his private advantage, council demanded his arrest would be demanded.

He believed the wire of little value and "just took it," Modir explained at Council's June meeting at which a check of all borough items was made.

The man in the White House has grasped the nettle, the Progressive Republican governor said. "I feel very much encouraged over the outlook."

He said there are more than 2,000,000 persons now on Pennsylvania's relief rolls, constituting about one-ninth of the whole national population.

Asked about the job that Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, is doing, Pinchot said: "I think he is hot stuff."

Pinchot said he liked Hopkins probably because his ideas and Hopkins' are the same.

Broadway Actress Is Living Alone On Small Island

Miss Christine Compton, On New York Stage In 1929, Is Island Dweller

Is Sure Cure For Arthritis Says Actress; Likes Robinson Crusoe Life

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 14.—A feminine Robinson Crusoe who has been living for two years on an uninhabited island in the West Indies was discovered today. She is Christine Compton, American actress, who was last seen on the New York stage in 1929.

She has been living alone on Goat Island, a rock sticking out of the sea near Tobago off the coast of Trinidad.

For her food she had to row out to a trading steamer which passes every two weeks. Even bread would spoil in two days and she lived on canned food.

Jar Of Caviar
Once when the steamer missed she had only a jar of caviar between herself and starvation.

She built herself a house on a neck of land so narrow the seas often washed her floors.

There are snakes on the island, and iguanas, the most horrible looking lizards in creation, often crossed her threshold.

Today on the terrace of her son's penthouse apartment just off Park avenue she waved her hand at the towers of New York and said:

"All this means nothing to me. I am going back there. That's my home."

Arthritis sent Miss Compton to the West Indies. She went to Tobago and saw three islands in a bay. She fell in love with the beauty of the spot. "I'm going to live there," she said, pointing to the middle island, and she made good on it.

Mountain Camp
Negroes made rafts of hand-hewn cypress boards and towed them to the island for her. Soon she had a little house resembling an American mountain camp.

Literary efforts have kept her there. Half the day she spends at her typewriter. Then she goes swimming.

When she can stand the solitude no longer she boards the trading steamer for Port of Spain, Trinidad.

Miss Compton will return soon to her island home. Going Robinson Crusoe in the tropics, she says, is the one sure cure for arthritis.

Fair Attendance Is Over Million Mark

Miss Eleanor Frost Of Syracuse, New York, Is Millionth Visitor At Fair

Miss Eleanor Frost of Syracuse, N. Y., was the millionth visitor to enter the gates. She was met by Mrs. L. L. Lohr, general manager of the fair, who presented her with the official fair medallion.

Local Discussion Of The Situation Confronting Our Country At Present Time

(Column In Charge of Lawrence Co. W. C. T. U.)

The 18th Amendment
In considering whether or not any constitutional provision or amendment should be changed or repealed, the fair minded and thinking citizen naturally seeks to determine why such a provision is in the constitution. A casual study of that great document will show that it erects a framework of national government. Next it contains provisions, which in the experience of man were fundamental, either to the protection of man from the government, or to the protection of the government from man. Outstanding provisions protecting man from the government are the following:

- (a) The guarantee of the right to speedy trial by jury.
- (b) The guarantee of religious liberty.
- (c) Security against unreasonable searches and seizures.
- (d) The prohibition of quartering troops in any house without the owner's consent.
- (e) The prohibition against depriving citizens of his life, liberty or property without due process of law.

The chaotic condition of colonial governments was due largely to disputes over these alleged rights and so, in preparing the constitution, the colonists naturally caused them to be made a part of the fundamental law, thus preventing continued governmental strife.

For fifty years prior to the Civil war the slavery question vexed and corrupted and eventually threatened to disrupt the government. It was this situation which caused the adoption of the slavery amendments. The slavery amendments were not adopted primarily to free the slaves but to rid the government of the question itself.

The Eighteenth Amendment is the second provision by which the government is protected from the people. This amendment was not written into the constitution alone because of the influence of intoxicants upon the individual or upon society, but, like the slavery amendments, because of the vexing and corrupting influence of the liquor industry in government. This corruption in government is too well known to require comment.

By placing the slavery and liquor amendments in the constitution the questions were removed from politics and became administration problems. In administration of the slavery amendments the same problem and opposition was met as is now being encountered in the administration of the Eighteenth Amendment. That opposition died in time.

By the slavery amendments the right of the people to have an uncorrupted unified government was placed superior to the right of an individual to own and use slaves. By the Eighteenth Amendment the right of the people to have a government uncorrupted by the liquor industry was placed superior to the right of an individual to manufacture, sell or possess intoxicating liquor. If at the time of its adoption, the Eighteenth Amendment was considered necessary to protect the people from the corruption of the liquor industry in politics, then before that amendment can be repealed it must be made to appear that the liquor industry has reformed.

In considering whether the Eighteenth Amendment should be repealed the voter should ask himself these questions:

- 1st—Is there any evidence that the liquor industry has reformed?
- 2nd—Should I again place my government in the corrupting power of the liquor industry?

Children To Flock To Park

Out Rate Prices Prevail Also For Parents On Thursday

EXPECT THOUSANDS TO ENJOY FROLIC

Hundreds of children who have been released from city and county schoolrooms for the summer vacation will have a joyous romp Thursday when the first kiddies' day picnic of 1933 will be held at Cascade Park.

And it is probable that by the time noon arrives there will be not only hundreds of children, but a great crowd of parents present, and later in the day they will hear a band concert by the New Castle high school band.

From the time the park opens until kiddies' day is over the children will be able to ride on all the amusements at half price, and between two p. m. and four p. m. will be able to secure ice cream cones and pop at low price.

The prices for the children will be the prices for the grownups, too, according to the park commission, and with a 10-cent rate prevailing for the Billy Glenn pool it is anticipated that the pool will be crowded all day long.

Another cut in prices for Thursday is the street car fare. Persons will be hauled for five cents, and automobiles can be parked in the park plot for five cents. All concessions, it is said, will also cut prices in half.

The mayor and councilmen will have charge of athletic events and with Boy Scout patrols "on the job", worries of mothers will be lessened. Dancing will be one of the features Thursday evening.

Everybody is Talking Pontiac

"BALANCED VALUE"

EVERYBODY is talking Pontiac this year. Why? We should like to tell you what we believe are some of the reasons. Different people like it for different qualities. The artist, for example, stresses its appearance. The business man is impressed by its durability and economy. Others especially like its roomy comfort and its safety. A boy or a girl is thrilled by nothing so much as its performance.

Yet none of these people would be satisfied with a car that had only the one feature they talk about.

Even the man who talks most about his car's pick-up and speed, also wants durability, comfort, safety, appearance and economy.

That's Balanced Value—and that is why everybody is talking Pontiac this year.

Ask any Pontiac owner. Any Pontiac dealer will gladly give you a demonstration. Drive it yourself. Try it out in any way you can think of.

"Pontiac makes a hit with me because of its straight right performance. I get away first every time."

"I like it because its weight and strength make me feel safe and it is so comfortable and easy riding."

"I like my new Pontiac because I use it in business every day, and I need a car that's got durability enough to 'take it'."

The county was authorized by the state to do the work, and it was completed by a committee of volunteers from the various veteran groups. The actual cost was $1,200, and it is estimated that fully $6,000 was saved by the volunteer workers. The book is believed to be the first of its kind in the United States to be prepared by any county.

BARGAINS

There are bargains aplenty advertised these days—clothes, amusements, furniture, foods. Something catches your fancy; you reach for a telephone. A few brief words and the purchase is made. • A bargain, yes. But the greater bargain is the telephone itself. For less than 10 cents a day it helps you shop, runs errands, brings news, keeps you in touch with friends near and far. • More than a bargain—when emergencies arise the telephone then is priceless. Without delay it summons aid, saves property—even life!

You cannot measure the value of a telephone in your home by its small cost. One call may be worth more to you than the telephone's cost for a lifetime.

Stanford Citizens Cannot Conceive Of Lamson As Murderer

Stanford Home After Five Years Of Happiness Is Broken Up By Tragedy

Ugly Rumors Afloat Now, None Confirmed; Did Lamson Kill His Wife?

By ELENORE MEHERIN
Author Of "Chickie" And Other Popular Novels—Written Exclusively For And Copyrighted 1933 By International News Service

SAN JOSE, Cal., June 14.—Under the tall trees of the Stanford campus where the hills emanate peace and a scholarly quiet—where the very air breathes dignity and purpose, a young girl, Allene Thorpe, and a young boy, David Lamson, studied, achieved, loved and married. They were such upstanding, fine young people.

Idol Of Class
He was the idol of his class, with a flair for writing and dramatics. Only a lad in his teens when he first met Allene Thorpe, a dark-eyed, winsome stranger, flashing with brilliance and ambition. Both were good students; both were eager and beloved.

"A glorious romance," sighed old Stanford graduates as they stood on the steps of the Memorial chapel and waved Goodspeed to Dave and Allene Lamson that golden noon of June 18, 1928. "Those two will show how tender and magnificent true marriage is."

For five years the legend of the perfect romance grew. The young Lamsons made their home in a rose-covered cottage in sequestered, peace-haunted Salvatierra street. Here, their many friends gathered.

Fine Daughter
And here, two years ago, a little girl was born to them. She is a most beautiful child.

Their happiness, apparently, was complete. They had their love—they had their personal success. He became the manager of the Stanford University Press and she, the secretary of the Stanford Y. W. C. A. They were a part and parcel of the college setting.

And the only comment ever made was this: "He loves her too much."

Did any one ever see in David Lamson's new brooding, unhappy eyes a faint hint of the frightful deed he is accused of committing?

Did any one surmise that black hostility raged behind that sweet, tranquil face of Allene Thorpe?

Worked In Garden
There are rumors now but every one has been stirred up in these dark two weeks. No word was ever said before.

That sunny morning of Decoration Day, as Dave Lamson worked in his garden, neighbors watched with warm, approving smiles.

At ten o'clock came the shocking, sudden, unbelievable shift in the Lamson fortunes.

A real estate agent, Mrs. L. M. Place, bringing clients who wished to rent the little home for the summer, rang the bell, received no answer and sauntered to the backyard.

Here she saw the athletic figure of young Lamson. He was stripped to the waist and carefully raking the bonfire.

Was Not Excited
"Go back to the front door. I'll run in and tidy up a bit," he said affably. He appeared undisturbed. He hadn't heard the bell ring.

Is that statement going to weigh bitterly against him? They are saying so—saying the bell was very loud.

But Mrs. Place had no suspicions. She waited with her clients. Unexpectedly—piercingly came a cry—a scream. Then frantic, rushing footsteps.

The door was pulled open. Lamson, white as a ghost, shaking from head to foot and covered with blood, cried out at them: "My God! My wife has been murdered!"

Why did he say "murdered"? That's another cruel detail.

There was a wild hour in the little rose-covered home. In the bathroom they found the pale, nude body of the beautiful girl. Done frightfully to death.

Found In Tub
She was sitting in the bathtub, her head dropped over the side and her long, shiny brown hair trailing the floor. One limp hand touched her husband's slipper.

The tub was half filled with water. It was pale pink. There was no blood on the faucets and none on the rim. But two feet distant was a crimson pool and on the wall where the girl-wife's nightgown hung there were large red stains.

Opinions Divided
"He killed her—a deliberate, brutal murder," says the sheriff.

"David Lamson didn't kill her. He couldn't kill her," says Mrs. Brown, his nearest neighbor.

"I found him crouched beside the bathtub, the unclad body of his wife clasped in his arms. He was holding her head, sobbing hysterically and calling her name. He tried to lift her and blood splashed all over him. He dropped in a faint when we led him away."

In the bonfire under the brush lay a ten inch pipe. They say it has blood stains. They say it is the death weapon and with this David Lamson, in flaming rage struck and struck and struck upon his startled, terror-muted wife.

PRICE CONTROL SEEN IN ERIE MILK WAR

ERIE, Pa., June 14.—Secretary of Agriculture Henry Wallace suggests that Erie county's milk price war be put before him for settlement.

In a telegram to Paul Crossman, Erie county farm agent, Wallace asked that milk dealers and producers, whose disagreements have resulted in the shooting of one farmer, injuring of several others and the dumping of several hundred gallons of milk, draw up an agreement and submit it to him.

Crossman says he interprets the secretary's proposal to mean that if the agreement is approved, then the price established for milk will be controlled by the federal government under the terms of the emergency relief act.

Home Owners Can Refinance Homes Through Federal Aid Under Bill

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, June 14.—President Roosevelt on Tuesday signed the home owners loan act under which urban home owners will be enabled to refinance their mortgages through federal aid.

The act will afford relief to all citizens desiring it who own homes valued at $20,000 and less. The mortgages on such dwellings may be refinanced up to 80 per cent with a maximum of $14,000 allowed. Deer shed their horns once a year.

"Don't you find it hard to meet expenses these days?"
"Hard! I should say not! Man alive, I meet expenses at every turn."

CITY-COUNTY OFFICIALS DISCUSS RELIEF

City Requesting County To Aid

Wants County Poor Fund To Meet Compensation Insurance Charges

NEW CONFERENCE SET FOR FRIDAY

While no definite actions were secured Tuesday afternoon when the County Commissioners met with City Council, in an effort to adjust the matter of payment of workmen's compensation insurance rates on relief labor, the conference adjourned in a spirit of optimism that something would be accomplished at the next meeting, which is Friday.

The session Tuesday was the second such conference. It arose out of the fact that the City of New Castle had asked that the county pay the insurance premiums on the compensation policies of men working on the Mayor's Relief. Present at the conference were the three county commissioners, P. O. Elder, A. E. Conner, F. R. Woods, County Solicitor John P. Lockhart, Mayor Charles B. Mayne, Councilmen W. Stanley Treser, A. W. Hoyland, County Controller R. C. McCaslin, Jr., Controller's Solicitor Orville Brown, and chairman of the Lawrence County Emergency Relief Board, Dr. G. S. Bennett.

Poor Fund Unavailable
County Solicitor Lockhart opened the conference by stating that he had searched the poor law for some authority that would permit the poor directors to pay out such money but that he was unable to find any such authorization. "While we are wholly sympathetic with the idea," said Mr. Lockhart, "there is no law to permit such expenditures and I regret that it is my duty to inform county commissioners that if they make payments, they will be illegal." Dr. Bennett then asked if such restriction upon payment of the insurance premium would stand in the case of work being done outside the city limits. "It does," said Mr. Lockhart. "We cannot assume the payment of this premium upon any job whether it be city, township or borough."

"We have no poor funds in the city," said Mayor Charles B. Mayne, "the county collects it all and expends it all. We believe therefore that this payment of premium might properly be assumed by the county." Councilmen Treser and Hoyland held the same view.

Large Poor Burden
"The State is relieving the county of about $75,000 per month of relief payments," said Dr. Bennett. "However, the state money is for actual relief purposes and the county should take care of the incidental expenses like premiums, hire of foreman and the like."

The solicitor for the County Controller, Orville Brown then said that he agreed wholly with Mr. Lockhart that the county could not legally pay the premium rates out of the poor funds.

"If this is the case then all the work on the Mayor's Relief must stop at the end of this week," said the mayor. "We have been taking the premium money out of various funds, and while we have known there might be some question as to its legality, we have risked that in order to provide relief. We are at the end of our funds available for such purposes, and if the county cannot pay the fees, then the work is finished."

County Solicitor Lockhart then suggested that he had a plan in mind which would have to be investigated as to its legality and asked that the conference be postponed until Friday, June 16. This was agreed to and the conference adjourned.

Reveal How Babies Get Lead Poisoning

(International News Service)

MILWAUKEE, June 14.—An X-ray illustrated lecture for parents of young children with a tendency to eat face powder and chew at furniture and things was read Tuesday at the convention of the American Medical Association.

At a booth on the exhibition floor of Milwaukee auditorium, were summarized the effects of such practices on 77 children who had been treated by Doctors Charles F. McKinnon and Edward C. Vogt at Children's hospital, Boston.

Lead Poisoning
All had contracted severe lead poisoning from the paint they had chewed off the articles or from the face powder they had eaten. The youngsters were from one to five years of age on admission to the hospital during the years from 1924 to 1933.

Of the 77 victims, eleven died; twelve suffered permanent skeletal injury; four remain victims of periodical convulsions; in four the brain atrophied; two still have tremors; mental retardation has been noted in six; blindness in three; speech defects in one and persistent neuritis in two.

The lead was deposited in the gum margins and bones of the youngsters.

Anemia resulted and spinal fluid pressure rose to produce profound brain and nerve damage.

The X-ray photographs showed the damage done to the skeletons of the victims by the poisonous lead.

The doctors said many more hundreds of young children suffered from milder cases of lead poisoning, acquired under similar circumstances, but do not get treatment because parents and many physicians fail to detect the lead poison symptoms, attributing the condition of the children to mere "puniness."

"CUB SCOUTING" GROWS
It has been with considerable interest that parents of a group of North Hill boys—a group younger than regular Boy Scouts—have watched the formation of Lawrence county's first pack of Cub Scouts, the newer branch of scouting.

Charles A. Bolen assumed direct charge of the Cub program for the county several weeks ago, announcing at that time that an expansion of scouting work among the younger boys would begin. Since that time the movement has been progressing.

BABE AND CHIMPANZEE ARE CONSTANT COMPANIONS FOR YEAR, AS SCIENTIFIC EXPERIMENT

Professor Kellogg
For 12 months little Donald Kellogg has had Gua, an infant chimpanzee, as his constant companion, so that his father, Dr. W. N. Kellogg, professor of psychology at Indiana university, and his mother might record results of one of the most unusual scientific experiments ever attempted. As a result of tests concluded at their

Kellogg Orange Park, Fla., bungalow, Dr. Kellogg declares that chimpanzees are far superior to the human child in memory, co-operative spirit and ability to grasp knowledge, but the chimpanzee, at the age of 16 months, has reached the peak of its ability to learn, while the child learns more with each day of instruction. Donald and Gua wore the same clothes, ate the same food, were given the same training and tests. They are shown, above, during the tests.

"Give a girl even a moderate education and a trade or calling by which she can be self-supporting and independent, and the instinct of self-preservation will bring her safely through the adolescent period," wrote Mrs. Margaret St. John Andrews, who, with her husband, Wallace C. Andrews left an endowment to found the Andrews

School for Girls at Willoughby, O., the only school of its kind in the country. Over 250 girls from 12 to 18 years of age are enrolled in the school, to be trained in the fields of clothing, foods, business and art. There is no June commencement at the Andrews school. Graduates must support themselves for six months in their chosen field before they get their diplomas, their department heads assisting them in getting work. Mrs. Eugene R. Overturf is dean of the school; Anna Bara is president of this year's graduating class. Mary Jane Becker, Nellie Sterrett and Geraldine Gorgynski are among the most attractive students.

Good at Marrying Fortunes

LOUISE VAN ALLEN ALEX BARBARA HUTTON
Though there's mystery about the titles they claim, there's no doubt about winning ways of the Midwestern boys with women of wealth and prominence. Pola Negri, film star, was wife No. 1 and Mary McCormic, opera singer, wife No. 2 of Serge. Mae Murray, movie beauty, is suing David for a divorce a second time. She dropped first action. Alexis, recently divorced from Louise Van Allen, New York heiress, found a million-dollar baby in a 10-cent store, so to speak, and is wedding Barbara Hutton, heiress to Woolworth fortune. The boys call themselves princes. Burke's Peerage doesn't list them; their home province of Georgia in Russia doesn't have any princes now; Russian princes were never of royal blood; and a father's title never descends to all of the sons. Phillies May Give Klein To Chicago Cubs

Cubs Would Part With $100,000 And Throw In Babe Herman For Good Measure

BOSTON GIANTS TALKING TRADE

By DAVIS J. WALSH
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, June 14.—Twenty-four hours out from the trading dead line, the Chuck Klein business was out for another airing today, with $100,000 bid and $150,000 asked. The bid, as a matter of fact, is $100,000 and Floyd Couders, making the earnest right fielder, making the present rate of exchange in Chicago. The Brooklyn club also has weighed in with a bid for Klein, just how much nobody seems to know; only that it isn't enough.

The Phillies, however, are in what is technically known as a spot. If they keep Klein, they may lose the ball club.

Leslie To Dodgers. Meantime, the Dodgers and Giants are on the verge of a transaction that will send Sam Leslie, the assistant first baseman, across the river for an outfielder and pitcher. The latter is said to be Van Mungo. The outfielder either will be Lefty O'Doul or Hack Wilson, both of whom, so to speak, have been on the market with no market.

Mr. Terry also has been doing some angling in troubled waters elsewhere, without conspicuous success. He has offered five players, identity not disclosed, to the Boston Braves for Wally Berger, the outfielder. But Bill McKee's is understood to have heard Mr. Terry's story and then told him a better one.

"If you ever make a deal like that with the Braves," he said, "take me along, will you? There won't be any use of me going back to Boston."

It seems, too, that random offers have been made him on behalf of Dutch Brandt, the left hander, to all of which McKee has paid no heed on a very broad scale.

Herman On Block. However, baseball men insist today that the Leslie-O'Doul-Mungo thing has a real chance and that the Phillies will be smart if they sell Klein to the highest bidder, owing to the fact that they can use money to buy a little margin on the balance sheet. The prevailing interest has been so low that it's getting so nowadays they can't even depend on the ushers.

In these circumstances, baseball men insist, Herman wouldn't be a bad buy especially if accompanied by the sort of money they seem to be discussing so impulsively. Mr. Herman, they say, needs only two things, a short right field fence and a long time to make up his mind. He sounds like an ideal man for the Philadelphia ball park.

GOLF FACTS NOT THEORIES

By ALEX. J. MORRISON
Central Press Association

FOR SHORT SHOTS TAKE STARTING POSITION WITH HANDS AHEAD OF BALL

ALEX. MORRISON says: For a long time you have been told not to let your hands get ahead of the clubhead, yet the very instructor who may have told you this stands up to the ball with his hands well in front of the clubhead.

What your instructor wants you to do, of course, is to have your hands neither ahead nor behind the clubhead at the moment of impact but rather in the line running from your left shoulder to the ball.

You can have them in the proper position at impact more often by starting your swing from a position where your hands are ahead of the ball than you can from any other position.

Wyatt Hurls One-Hit Game

Chicago White Sox Pitcher Misses Hall Of Fame By Inches

HILDEBRAND WINS FOR CLEVELAND

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, June 14.—If the Chicago crime news of the near future should feature the trial of one Theodore Gullic, don't be surprised if the jury returns a verdict of justifiable homicide.

Wyatt, a young pitcher obtained by the Chicago White Sox from Detroit recently, would be in baseball's hall of fame today but for Gullic, who is the handy man of the St. Louis Browns. Wyatt held the Browns hitless yesterday until two were out in the ninth inning, when Gullic ruined his bid for everlasting fame by driving a clean single over second base. The fact that the Browns were trailing 6 to 1 at the time, and had no chance to win, made Wyatt's cup of woe the more bitter.

Two passes, a sacrifice and an infield out gave the Browns their only run.

Hildebrand Wins

Another near-perfect game was turned in by Oral Hildebrand, of Cleveland. Hildebrand, chalking up his second victory in the Indians' last two games, won a 1 to 0 duel from Tommy Bridges of Detroit when he scored Pylak's single.

Those who feared that the New York Yankees would have the American league pennant sewed up by Independence Day can save their tears. With their pitching staff skidding like a fat lady making her first cruise on roller skates, the Yanks are in a bad way and the end is not yet in sight.

The champions lost their fifth game in seven starts since leaving home when they were nosed out by the tail-end Boston Red Sox, 6 to 5. To make things worse, they were beaten by the hitting of an ex-Yank, Dusty Cooke. He drove in four runs and won the game by smacking a homer with one on base in the seventh. Lou Gehrig also starred at bat with three hits, including his 14th homer of the year, tying Ruth and Foxx for the lead in the home run derby.

Senators Advanced

Washington advanced to within 2½ games of the Yanks by outslugging the Athletics 10 to 6. Heinie Manush had a perfect day at bat with five hits, and Goose Goslin, recently benched by the Nats, increased his base hits output for the last two days to seven by lacing out three hits.

The Cincinnati jinx again overtook the Cubs, who lost to the Reds 2 to 1. It was Chicago's seventh defeat in eight games at Redland Field this year and the fourth time this season that Lonnie Warneke, ace hurler of 1932, has been derring outpointed Warneke thanks to Chick Hafey, who drove in both of Cincinnati's runs.

Hubbell Wins Ninth

Despite seven errors, three of them by Johnny Vergez, Carl Hubbell of the New York Giants hung up his ninth victory of the year by subduing the Braves, 6 to 3.

The Cardinals kept pace with the league leaders by shading the Pirates, 4 to 3, behind Dean's pitching.

The Phillies laced four pitchers for 20 hits and swamped Brooklyn 15 to 4. Chuck Klein got five hits and Fullis four.

Boro A. C. Will Play Flats Team

Boro A. C. baseball team will have the strong Clifton Flats team at their field Thursday evening at 6 o'clock. This will be a nine inning game. There is a lot of rivalry between these two teams, and a fast game is looked for. The Boro boys have won 13 games and lost but two this year.

Anderson will do the pitching for the Boro, with Sovesky behind the bat. A social time is planned for both teams following the game, according to John Leckwart, business manager of the Boro team.

EVELYNE TRAINS FOR TRACK MEET

Haldy Becomes Football Coach At Turtle Creek

Former Westminster Backfield Man Will Succeed Foxy Miller As Coach

Turtle Creek Union high football team will have a new coach this fall. Foxy Miller, who has been head coach at Turtle Creek for many years, resigned recently rather than take a reported salary cut. Ben Haldy, former Westminster and Bucknell backfield star, has been signed to coach Turtle Creek this coming fall.

Haldy has been coaching with fine success at East Brady high and it was on the strength of his record at East Brady and the fact that he is a graduate of Turtle Creek Union that made the school board decide in his favor. He will assume his duties when school opens in the fall. New Castle high plays Turtle Creek this year at Turtle Creek.

Princeton Trims Portersville 7-5

Princeton baseball team handed Portersville a 7 to 5 defeat last evening at the Portersville field in a fast and well played game. Farrell on the mound for the Princeton team limited the Portersville team to six hits. He fanned nine, White did the pitching for the losers and was touched for nine hits.

V. Shaffer had the longest hit of the game, a triple. Davis and White each slammed out a double. Princeton had two big innings, the third and fourth, when they tallied all seven of their runs.

Spike's Announcing He Tells Stories With Announcements When Delays Occur Getting Him Places

For several years the fans hereabouts have discussed "Who made good at the bowl." In every instance practically the name of a fighter was mentioned. However, there was one other fellow who apparently has hit near the top. He's Spike Eberle.

When the bowl first started, Mike Kane inquired if the bowl would like to hear a fog voiced young man like who had aspirations to become a second Joe Humphreys. Receiving the nod from the writer M. J. brought this fellow Spike Eberle to town.

And before he had left the bowl he had made himself solid, not only because of his good announcing but because of his personality and nowadays he's playing along the Bigger Time and getting along famously.

A few nights ago we espied the chap at Ellwood City where he went to announce for the Shelby Social club. After several minutes conversation Spike sauntered to his duties and he did his duties well.

When there was a delay between the bouts he told a story in good form that kept the audience in good form and he left the club with the "boasts" of all ringing in his ears and he deserves an "S" for a "good guy" as the fight vernacular goes.

They Were Good. There have been some other mighty good announcers here and while we don't like to "hit in the family" there was none more clever appearing than Bugs Walther. Yes, go.

Universals To Organize Team

Universal Baseball Team Will Be Fastest Semi-Pro Team In County

One of the fastest baseball teams that New Castle has had since the days of the old O. & P. league, will be organized by the Universal Pottery, according to an announcement from Dean Staley today.

All of the players on the roster are well known Lawrence County stars, and are well known to the fans of the city and county. "The team has selected Centennial Field for their home games. The best professional and semi-pro teams obtainable will be brought to New Castle to compete with the Universals. Clean General has been chosen by the players to be their manager. General is well known in the district.

To Play Fast Teams

Frank Weisbaker has been selected as business manager and at this time is busy making contacts with some very fast teams. With a little support from the fans of New Castle the Universals will be able to bring to New Castle some of the fastest teams in this section of the country.

The Universals will give the fans an opportunity of selecting the teams you would like to see play in New Castle. Just write your choice of teams on a slip of paper and mail to Business Manager Universals P. O. Box 623, or call 9080 and ask for the Business Manager. The team is not receiving any financial backing from any one or any organization. The players will be on their own and hope that the fans will support them.

Well Known Stars

The team will hold a practice session at Centennial Field tonight at 5:30 o'clock, and the public is invited to attend these practices and see what the Universals are doing and what kind of a team they are going to have.

The following players will make up the Universal team: Paul McCullough, Wylie Shiek, Mike Diffley, Henry Summers, Jackie Reider, George Byak, Johnny Russo, Nick Bondi, Peck Houston, Mickey Huff, Eddie Redman, John Valley and Butchell.

Stock Market
Is Steady Today

Fresh Rush To Buy Is Manifested In Early Market Trading

(International News Service)
NEW YORK, June 14.—The stock market steadied today after yesterday's sinking spell as sentiment was cheered by further broad improvement in business. Irregularity still persisted, however, with the motors heavy.

New strength in the dollar, the depressing influence in yesterday's closing selling, was reflected only in some irregularity at the opening. This was quickly erased by a fresh rush to buy which put the high speed ticker 6 minutes behind.

Rails and utilities led the rally with gains running to more than 2 points.

The steel industry reported a further rise of 3 per cent in operation for the week while the steady gain in power production saw this week's figures 14 per cent above the same 1932 week. The N. Y. Central announced a substantial increase in car loadings last week, the gain running to more than 17 per cent.

The uprush ran into heavy profit-taking which kept it in check, and pared the gains.

Successful Banquet
At North Sewickley

Fathers And Sons Gather At Presbyterian Church Tuesday Night

ELLWOOD CITY, June 14.—Successful in every detail was the annual fathers and sons banquet held by the members of the North Sewickley Presbyterian church last evening in the church rooms. One hundred ten fathers and sons of the congregation were present to enjoy the affair planned in their honor.

The events of the evening were started with a baseball game between the married and single men resulting in a decisive victory of 8 to 1 in favor of the married men.

A sumptuous dinner was served by the members of the Ever Ready class with Mrs. Harry Walker in charge of the serving. The long tables which were cleverly decorated by Mrs. J. R. Clarke presented a pretty scene with their bouquets of roses and snapdragons and effective color scheme of pink and white which was also used in the menu appointments.

The invocation was given by Rev. Charles Bell, who was a special guest. Clement Hays presided as toastmaster and a trio composed of Richard Blank, Clem Hays and Rev. H. D. Maxwell sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and Rev. Maxwell conducted the singing of "Sweet Peace, The Gift of God's Love." The toast to the fathers was given by J. R. Clarke and the response from the sons was made by Rev. R. E. Bell.

Rev. H. D. Maxwell, pastor of the Reformed church was the principal speaker and he gave an interesting talk on "Home Environment and Its Effect on a Child's Life." Rev. Maxwell's address given in his characteristic humorous manner was very impressive and worthwhile. Mr. Robert Baird was the old fathers in attendance and Roy Hermann, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hermann was the youngest son.

A full measure of credit for the successful program is due the entertainment committee which was composed of Thomas Baird, Carl Shirley and Clem Hays.

Newlyweds Honored
By Classes Here

ELLWOOD CITY, June 14.—Mr. and Mrs. Frank McKim, a bride and groom of recent date were the guests of honor at a delightful event sponsored by the Kings Daughters Berean Bible Classes of the U. P. church last evening in the church dining room. Sixty-five were present on the occasion.

The affair had a double purpose Tuesday night. It was also a farewell party for Mrs. Snyder, teacher of the Kings Daughters Class, who is moving with her son tomorrow to Warren, Pa. Mrs. Snyder and Mr. McKim were presented with useful gifts by the assemblage.

A delicious luncheon was served by a committee composed of Mrs. Thomas Patterson, Mrs. Ed. Christie, Mrs. George Wright, and Miss Martha McKim, George Young, Mrs. Len Springer and Mrs. George Burrows. Entertainment was furnished by the church choir.

Thomas Patterson and Mrs. Springer presented the gifts to the newlyweds and to Mrs. Snyder, respectively.

Maxwell sang "The Old Rugged Cross" and Rev. Maxwell conducted the singing of "Sweet Peace, The Gift of God's Love." The toast to the fathers was given by J. R. Clarke and the response from the sons was made by Rev. R. E. Bell.

Rev. H. D. Maxwell, pastor of the Reformed church was the principal speaker and he gave an interesting talk on "Home Environment and Its Effect on a Child's Life." Rev. Maxwell's address given in his characteristic humorous manner was very impressive and worthwhile. Mr. Robert Baird was the old fathers in attendance and Roy Hermann, small son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hermann was the youngest son.

A full measure of credit for the successful program is due the entertainment committee which was composed of Thomas Baird, Carl Shirley and Clem Hays.

The affair had a double purpose Tuesday night. It was also a farewell party for Mrs. Snyder, teacher of the Kings Daughters Class, who is moving with her son tomorrow to Warren, Pa. Mrs. Snyder and Mr. McKim were presented with useful gifts by the assemblage.

A delicious luncheon was served by a committee composed of Mrs. Thomas Patterson, Mrs. Ed. Christie, Mrs. George Wright, and Miss Martha McKim, George Young, Mrs. Len Springer and Mrs. George Burrows. Entertainment was furnished by the church choir.

Thomas Patterson and Mrs. Springer presented the gifts to the newlyweds and to Mrs. Snyder, respectively.

Bond Issue For $25,000,000 To Be Voted Upon

If It Fails To Pass Special Session Of Assembly Likely To Be Called

By WILLIAM J. KELLY
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, June 14.—Rather than levy additional taxes on an already overburdened populace, the 1933 general assembly adopted a $25,000,000 bond issue which voters will be asked to approve in November.

The importance of the bond issue was not overlooked at the busy session. It was considered about the only method of raising that amount of money for the next biennium without increasing taxes. Consequently, it was adopted.

To aid its approval at the polls, legislators devised two significant schemes. Twenty million dollars will be used to finance relief in Pennsylvania, and the remaining $5,000,000 will be distributed for the maintenance of state-aided hospitals and colleges.

If the bond issue fails, this money will not be available. The alternative will be a special session of the general assembly to appropriate sufficient funds to carry the institutions and relief program through the remainder of the 1933-35 biennium.

A warning that such a session, if necessary, will mean additional taxes already has been sounded by Gen. Edward Martin, Republican state chairman. He prided himself on the fact that the 1933 assembly levied no additional taxes, except on beer, but held out no hope for a similar escape in future years.

If the bond issue is defeated, an immediate special session will result because relief funds, on the basis of present demands will be exhausted by 1934. Moreover, the money that will be allotted to hospitals and colleges will not be sufficient to carry them through the next two years on their present operating basis.

Therein lies the incentive for passage of the bond issue. Regardless of economic conditions, employees of all institutions and the unemployed throughout the state will lead in the campaign for success of the issue. Under these conditions, few have any fear that it will fail.

Had not such contingencies been placed upon the issue, a majority of voters perhaps would have gone to the polls determined to sound its death knell. But now, the situation has been altered. Three strong groups will be on the passage bandwagon.

Pending the election political leaders are certain that no special session will be called. All such sessions will come after November, they claim. When, and if, it is called, the session will not be confined solely to financial affairs of the commonwealth. It is expected that "sweat shop" legislation will demand attention because of the recent strikes in eastern Pennsylvania.

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Not being a biologist, nor yet a zoologist or even an entomologist, we couldn't do anything about the matter, but the two young men who came in yesterday were insistent that somebody ought to know what it was they had. It looked like most anything. At first glance you might have guessed it was a locust or a grasshopper. Another glance convinced you that here was something left over from another age.

Its body was about like a grasshopper's with exceptionally long wings attached. The neck of the thing was encased in what appeared to be a protecting collar, something like that worn by a Mexican officer. Its tentacles were alarming looking things, nearly as strong looking as the claws of a lobster.

The two young men, David Ray and Jimmy Herberg, were trying to get it identified, with but little success. Ray had found it on Neshannock avenue giving a sparrow a battle. The sparrow had made a number of attempts to kill it for food, but the insect was too strong for the bird. And now we're wondering what it might have been. If it brought any relations along, we can look for an invasion.

In the past three days the temperature has done a Brodie that has a lot of furnaces back in use again. From Sunday to Tuesday there was a drop of 30 degrees or more, which does the summer wear salesmen no good at all, and brought back a lot of heavy clothing for a short return engagement.

County Treasurer Bill Pitts is fast regaining his composure. For a month or more he went around with a preoccupied look upon his face, corrugations in his brow, and answered questions in a distracted sort of way. That was before his license court was in session.

That's all over now for a year at least. The licenses are out, the treasury is in, and Pitts is picking up those pounds he lost, thinking over the problem.

Progress is reported in the matter of getting some repairs to route 17 this side of Edensburg. This main route west, the short route, by the way, is being used considerably, and in the past two weeks the New Castle Motor Club reports a definite increase in the number of visitors to the club for information on roads to Chicago.

Route 17 is the logical way out, but explanation that several miles of it are rough do nobody any good. When the stretch is repaired, as it should be, eastern motorists, stopping here, can be given a high speed route to the fair.

"I understand Guzzlum has come back to this country to live for good, after living abroad for the last few years."

"What brought him back?"

"The return of beer."

Peculiar Insect Is Captured Here

Efforts To Have It Named Have So Far Been Without Result

A monster specimen of insect life, the species or purpose of which in nature, has so far been undetermined, is in possession of Edward A. Davis of 17 Water street, who captured it on the door screen of his home.

It is about four inches in length from the farthest end of an enormous pair of antennae to the extreme end of its large filmy wings when folded against its body. These antennae extend out from the head and have the appearance of being used as pinchers. Directly back of them on the head are the eyes, which are exceptionally large for the size of the head. Back of the eyes extend up two thin threadlike feelers or arms. The body is long and narrow and not unlike that of a snake.

It has several very slender legs. It flies at night. Whether it is destructive to plant life is not known, but it feeds on grass that is placed in the glass jar in which it has been imprisoned. Mr. Davis is keeping it for a time to determine whether its name and purpose in the life of nature may be determined.
